set stage for training and important dialogue.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (Nov. 6, 2017) -The Kentucky Personnel Cabinet will host the 31 Annual Governor's Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) Conference, Wednesday, November 8, 2017 at the Muhammad Ali Center in Louisville.

What: 31st Annual Governor's Equal Employment Opportunity Conference

When: November 8, 2017

Where: Muhammad Ali Center
144 North 6th Street
Louisville, Kentucky

Agenda: A complete agenda can be found here.

With more than 275 registered, the conference has reached full capacity. Among the expected attendees are human resource executives, agency EEO personnel, attorneys and others. The event will provide professional development, continuing education and engagement opportunities regarding current trends and issues in the areas of equal employment, diversity and inclusion.

The cabinet will present the Charles Anderson Laureate Award during the conference luncheon, honoring an individual who has made a significant contribution in the area of equal opportunity. The opening keynote speaker will be Nate Northington. The luncheon also features a keynote address by Secretary John C. Tilley of the Kentucky Justice and Public Safety Cabinet.

The conference size and scope have increased for 2017, with a broader range of attendees, speakers and panelists, and a new venue to include complimentary admission to exhibits in addition to the day-long training.
